

Persefoni Talimtzi was born in Thessaloniki, Greece. She graduated from the Department of Mathematics, University of Ioannina in 2015 and she received her MSc degree in Biostatistics School of Medicine – Department of mathematics, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens in 2018. For a semester she was an Erasmus trainee in National Center of Epidemiology, Carlos III Health Institute, in Madrid working on HIV transmission data. She is a research fellow in Medical Statistics in the Department of Medicine, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki and has just started a PhD in Medical Statistics-Epidemiology under the supervision of associate Professor Anna-Bettina Haidich.

Her research interests include statistical methodology of medical data with R computer language and other statistical programs.

Contact details

talimtzi@auth.gr